Political Leaders Viewing Off Year Jockeying With Interest

POLITICAL LEADERS are watching the 1959 off-year with some satisfaction.

It is an unusual year of jockeying for 1960 position, with the public sentiment ebbing, then blaring. Republicans and Democrats alike hope they are getting the message exclusively.

In the heat of the state's financial problems, both Gov. Williams and Republicans in the legislature are vying for the designation of martyr while trying to tag the opponent with the tar of villainy.

Williams made himself unpopular for a time by asking to use veterans' Trust Fund temporarily to bolster the state's finances during a period of emergency.

Democrats refused to provide enough votes to put a sales tax increase on the April 6 ballot, a move Republicans believed was the desire of the voters, if a law were needed.

Williams' proposal to take the Veterans' Trust Fund was first defeated, then revived by Republicans, who later insisted a use tax, the equivalent of a sales tax increase, be enacted to pay the money back.

By holding back on Williams' plan to use the Trust Fund, the Republicans aided Williams to assume the martyr's role.

Williams, ordering payless days, blasted the legislative Republicans. After days of drumfire on the subject, legislators took on martyrdom.

SENTIMENT IS GATHERING steam for a constitutional convention or, if that fails, reapportionment of the legislature because of the conditions of 1959.

Democrats long have contended that the legislature now represents more "area" than people. Republicans answer that all interests, area as well as people, should have a voice.

The fight goes on, but observers are watching 1959, for tips on what they can expect in 1960.

CITIZENS IN MORE THAN 500 communities in Michigan will pay tribute to the industries, businesses, farms, services and other activities which provide their livelihood during Michigan Week.

The state was publicized as a poorhouse in the midst of plenty in the nation's leading periodicals so the chore of Michigan Week, May 17-23, will be harder this year. It is the sixth year of the celebration. Its purpose is to publicize the state as a good place to live and to do business, both on a national scale and among Michigan's own residents. The financial crisis has brought the state much unfavorable publicity and misunderstanding. Residents can minimize this reaction by their display of pride and confidence.

LAWYERS GATHERED at their new state headquarters in Lansing May 1 to celebrate "Law Day" and inspect the $300,000 building of the State Bar of Michigan.

Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of the Michigan Supreme Court reiterated the creed that "ours is a civilization of laws, not of men."

May 1 was selected as the day for the annual observance because of that date's significance to the world.

"The vitality of our legal system, so essential to maintaining our freedoms, depends on broad public understanding and support," said Gov. Williams, himself a lawyer.

Why There Are Jobless"

There has been a great deal of discussion of the unemployment problem. A commonly suggested cure is more massive doses of government aid of one kind or another, combined with inflation-breeding government aid programs.

But these proposals offer no real cure at all. They are merely alleviations. They deal with symptoms of disease and not the disease itself.

Writing in Newsweek, the distinguished economist Henry Hazlitt explains, "why there are jobless." He says: "Unemployment is caused mainly by wage rates that have become excessive in relation to productivity demand. The price of labor services is like the price of anything else. If it is too high in relation to demand, part of the supply will go unsold. The cure for a commodity is to reduce the price to the point where the entire supply can be sold. The cure in the case of labor is to reduce wage rates, in the lines where they are unworkable, to the levels where full employment can be assumed."

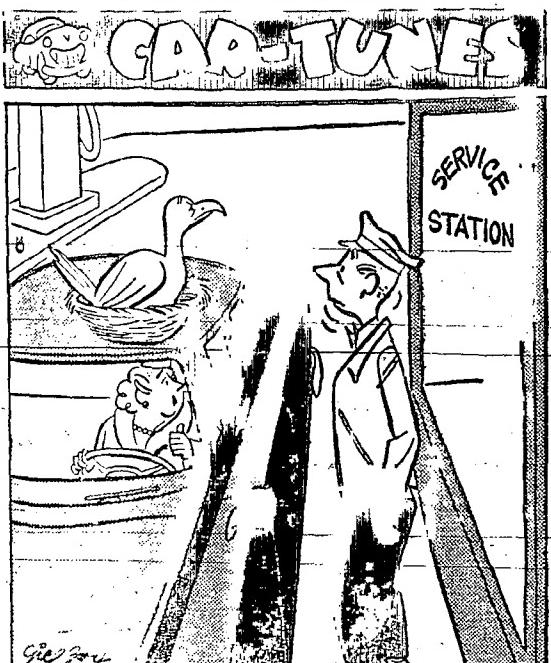

This prescription will be highly unpalatable to a great many people. But it is the only prescription which can solve the basic unemployment problem without creating still worse and still more destructive problems. Labor can price itself out of the market—and it is being done just that in many cases.

Head-And-Shoulders Standout . . .

It is not likely that public confidence in the Federal Bureau of Investigation as it is now constituted can ever be shaken. It is important to emphasize some of the reasons which underlie this well-deserved respect and trust.

Under the dedicated direction of J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI since 1924 has become one of the world's outstanding investigating agencies. Excellent administrative control, thrift, good budgetary and accounting procedures and careful planning have made it a model successful operation—a head-and-shoulders standout among government bureaus.

From special agent to clerk in the organization, Mr. Hoover's personnel policies have created the highest morale and esprit de corps. The high quality of the bureau's operations was highlighted again by its record for fiscal 1958. During that year, 96.8% of persons brought to trial in FBI cases were convicted. In this same period, over $132 million in savings and recoveries to the Government were made, as compared with the total of $105.5 million in direct appropriations approved by the Congress for this agency. This is something that every taxpayer can well appreciate.

For outstanding service and a job well done, every citizen owes this country's top investigative agency a resounding vote of confidence.

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

May 21, 1936

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Crandall, of The Dalles, Oregon, were in Grayling Monday afternoon, and made the Avalanche office a friendly call, in company with Mr. H. C. McKinley of Gaylord. Mrs. Crandall's father, Fifty-eight years ago the McKinley family were residents of Crawford County, and his daughter Lena was the first white child born east of Grayling Township, but now attached to Grayling Township for economic reasons.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parkow left Grayling Monday morning in the first lap of their trip to California where they plan to make their home at San Francisco. Their friends honored them with a series of farewell parties, among which was a fireman's party on Wednesday evening of last week at the Middle LaMotte home. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. N. VanNatter were hosts to some thirty friends at another party, and as a final celebration, a number of their very close friends drove to the Lyric Dance Hall at Higgins Lake Saturday evening and spent the evening dancing.

Brad Jarnin has resigned his position at the WPA office in Clare and has accepted a position in the office of the National Log Construction Company. Dr. Stanley A. Stealy is negotiating for the purchase of the old bank building from the Bank of America and planning to open offices there in the near future. Dr. Stealy was originally a practitioner in Charlotte until he was engaged as physician by the Children's Fund foundation. This building is now being occupied for a State liquor store. The manager says they haven't been notified that they must vacate.

Miss Marie Eisenbach, accompanied by Clifford Mallory, spent the weekend at her home in Saginaw. Mrs. Wesley LaGrow and daughter Cora Ann are here for a couple of weeks' visit with her parents. Two setbacks and one win were in order for Coach Cornell's men in the three games they played the past week. Friday afternoon the Mancelona nine was turned back by the Northern Lights, 6-5. Coach Makel's Gaylord squad slipped over a 21-6 victory Monday, and in the final home game of the season Kalkaska pounded the offerings of B. Hanson and Tibbets for a 16-8 win.

and remained over the weekend. The discovery of a dead deer hanging from a tree is reported by Roman Leitz. A few days ago he was at Lake Margrethe to find out if his fishing shanty was still where he expected it to be. Not far from that place he discovered a deer hanging by one foot from the crotch of a small tree. It was quite evident that the deer, in its attempt to get food, was reaching high up into the tree to browse, caught a foot in a crotch of the tree and was unable to get it loose. Starvation no doubt ended its life.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pochelon and son William of Detroit spent the weekend at their home on the North Branch River. William is remaining for an indefinite time. They had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bemb of Detroit.

Guests over the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Schable were the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fletcher, William Barnes, and Miss Audree Hewitt, of Lansing. Arriving Friday to visit at the Schable home were Mrs. Schable's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hewitt and son Fletcher of Detroit.

What will be good news and will meet with the hearty approval of the public in general we believe is the fact that the Board of Education has definitely decided to reopen the South Side School in September. There will be two teachers, and the kindergarten, first, second, and third grades will be taught.

Synd and Kai Hanson of Detroit were in Grayling for the weekend, enjoying fishing in some of their old haunts and visiting old friends.

IT'S GRAND TO LIVE IN GRAYLING -

ARCHERY CAPITOL OF THE WORLD

DAVID SHOPPENAGONS, Grayling's Chippewa Chief

Chief David Shoppenagons was born near the Saginaw River in 1807. He first came to Grayling with his son in the Fall of 1875 to hunt deer. Finding game plentiful in Crawford County he decided to bring his family from Swan Creek in Saginaw County to Grayling in the Spring of 1876. His family consisted of his wife, a son Thomas, and four daughters: Nancy, Hatty, Mary and Cora. Only a grandson Edward was believed to have survived Shoppenagons and his mother Nancy. The Chief's grandfather took part in the signing of the Greenville Treaty in 1795, which was between the United States and the Indians. Although he went by the name Shoppenagons here, he told some friends in Grayling that his real name "was Shop-Nee-Gauusse, meaning "Sewing Needle" in the Chippewa language.

The family lived in a Wigwam at the Mouth of the East Branch of the AuSable River, about one half mile from Grayling. Later Mr. Rasmus Hanson gave Shoppenagons enough lumber to build a house on a lot on the River near the US-27 Bridge in Grayling, on the site of Mrs. Lillian Houghton's present home.

David Shoppenagons made a living by hunting, fishing and guiding. Mr. "Rube" Babbitt often hired him as he was a good boatman and could entertain fishing parties around the campfire at night with Indian stories. He could build a good canoe and make a fine paddle". He was a familiar figure at Lumbermen's Conventions, entertaining with Indian dances and War Whoops. He wore moccasins on his feet, trousers outside of his shirt, and on gala occasions a Feather Head Dress and a double crest suspended from his neck.

The Chief hated Liquor and firmly believed in a Life Beyond the Grave. On Christmas Day in 1911 Grayling's respected Indian Chief passed to his "Happy Hunting Grounds". The Shoppenagon Inn and Chief Brand Maple Flooring were named to honor him.

Grayling Schools

Grayling's first public school, a cedar shanty built by the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw Railroad Co. for its men's use, was located where the Michigan Central roundhouse stood. Mary Haskins of Kalkaska was the first teacher, and her four students were: Ella Hooker, Jim Hartwick, Bert Nelson and Sam Eaton. The old Mercantile building, once an opera house, was also used as a school. The first schoolhouse constructed for that purpose was the present township hall, then located at the present site of Mrs. Nels Olson's home on Peninsular Street. The first teacher in it was Mrs. Fournier Daly. In 1883 the first high school, a wooden frame building was built on the site where the present school stands. Three additions were added before the fire destroyed it on January 21, 1915. The present high school was completed in 1916. The South Side School was built in 1913 to accommodate the younger children on the South Side. The Community - Auditorium - Gymnasium was completed in 1955.

There are 731 students attending the Grayling Public School. Of this number 312 ride on buses. Four buses from our school, one from Beaver Creek No. 1 and one from the Feldhauser District furnish the transportation with a total mileage of 277.2 per day. This includes the returning of the ten Beaver Creek and local Kindergarten children during the noon hour. Twenty-five teachers are on the staff.

St. Mary's Catholic School was built in 1952 and has four class rooms. Three Sisters and one lay teacher are instructing the 140 students.

Rasmus Hanson, Early Grayling Lumberman

Mr. Rasmus Hanson was born in Vesterkipping, Falster, Denmark on October 14, 1846. On May 3, 1865, he emigrated to America, landing at New York on May 15, 1865. He went to Racine, Wisconsin, where he worked on a farm. Later he went to Manistee, Michigan. He found employment with Mr. B. Sweet's Firm and rose to the position of foreman. In 1867, after having acquired some money he associated with E. N. Salling in buying timber, lumbering it, and selling the logs. In the fall of 1871 he sold to Engleman, Babcock & Salling and became the Firm's Wood Manager for two years. He associated himself with Nels Michelson in Jobbing and Logging in the mountain and then organized the firm of Michelson, Hanson & Company, which in 1873 became new firm of R. Hanson & Company. It operated until the Spring of 1878.

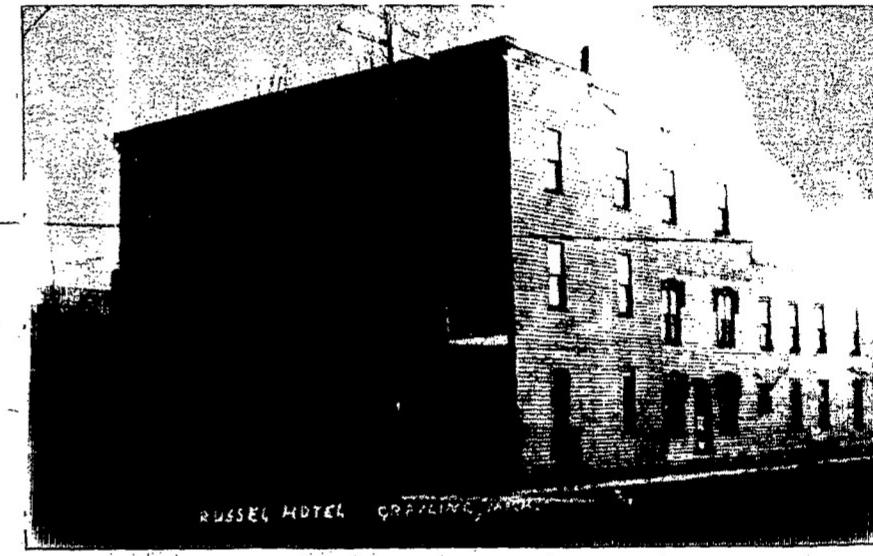

He came to Grayling and on June 4, 1878 he organized the Salling, Hanson & Company which put logs into the Manistee River and sold them at Manistee. In 1882 the firm began producing lumber of its own. In 1889 the Big Mill was built and remained in operation until September 22, 1927. In 1892 a Band Saw and Planing Mill were added. Until 1900 the firm was interested in Pine logs but in that year began erection of a Hardwood Mill at Johnsonburg. Mr. R. Hanson was the General Manager of the Salling, Hanson & Company. He was also General Manager of Michelson & Hanson Lumber Company in Lewiston, Michigan. In 1905 the Kerr & Hanson Flooring Company was organized with Mr. Kerr as President and General Manager and Mr. R. Hanson Vice President. Mr. Hanson organized the R. Hanson & Sons Lumber Company on September 18, 1908 and was the Managing Director and Treasurer of the firm, which began operation first in town.

Mr. Hanson had other interests too. He helped to organize the Michigan Sugar Company, the first of the kind in Michigan, and the Bay City Sugar Company and was a Director in both. He was a Stockholder in many other Companies such as U. S. Steel, etc.

In 1815 he presented the State of Michigan with 1,540 Acres of Land to be used as a Site for the Michigan National Guard's Encampment. He was a Republican and became a member of Michigan's Electoral College in 1896. He became Crawford County's First Treasurer and was a School Board Member for Fifteen years. He was a member of the National and State Lumbermen's Association and of The Hoos Hoos, the latter being a very Selective and Restrictive Organization. He was a Confirmed Danish Lutheran.

On September 7, 1887, he married Miss Margrethe Hanson. Their five children were: Mrs. Matilda Bauman, Mrs. Margrethe Graham, Thorwald Hanson, T. Hanson, Esborn and Oscar. Of these children only Mr. Esborn Hanson of Grayling is living.

Mr. Rasmus Hanson and Mr. Kerr of the Kerr Hanson Flooring Company passed away on the same day, on October 31, 1927. Mrs. Hanson lived to reach the age of 102 and passed away in 1946.

THE RUSSELL HOTEL

This building was formerly a millinery store located behind Kraus' Dry Goods Store and belonged to the Benson family. Later it was moved to the present site of the Parsons & Lamm's gas station and operated by Mr. H. Charbon. Local citizens can recall, when they were small, taking huckleberries to sell in at the side door and of the business catering to Sunday family dinners.
